MENTAL HEALTH AND COPING DURING COVID-19

April 6, 2020 – It seems that today we are living in a world of unknowns. The outbreak of COVID-19 has filled people with stress, worry, fear, anger, confusion, sadness and anxiety. All these feelings are normal during a crisis; however, it doesn’t mean you have to feel out of control.

Correctly coping with these emotions will ultimately make you, the people you care about and your community stronger. Taking care of yourself, your friends and your family can help you cope with stress which is what District Health Department #10 is hoping people will do.

Follow these simple ways to cope with stress:

- Take breaks from watching, reading or listening to news stories including on social media
  - Hearing grim news about the pandemic repeatedly can be upsetting
- Take care of your body
  - Try to eat healthy, well-balanced meals, three times a day
  - Exercise regularly
  - Take deep breaths, stretch or meditate
  - Get plenty of sleep
  - Avoid alcohol and drugs
- Make time to unwind
  - Participate in the activities you enjoy
  - Get outside and enjoy the sunshine, just remember to remain 6 feet apart from anyone you may see
- Connect with others
  - Talk with people you trust about how you are doing and feeling
  - Reach out and check in on your loved ones and community members
  - Social distancing is not social isolation, think of it as physical distancing instead
