

DISTRICT HEALTH DEPARTMENT #10 CELEBRATES NATIONAL HEALTH EDUCATION WEEK

October 17, 2022 – Join District Health Department #10 (DHD#10) and the Society for Public Health Education (SOPHE) during this National Health Education Week (NHEW), October 17-21, 2022, to celebrate Health Educators, Health Planners, and Health Resource Advocates and the important work they do in our communities.

Since 1995, NHEW has been annually celebrated the third week of October. This week focuses national attention on major public health issues and promotes a better understanding of the role of health education in society.

Health Education Specialists are assets to their communities as they offer knowledge, skills, and training, as well as spend countless hours educating the public on health issues to promote overall health and wellbeing (e.g., diabetes prevention, tobacco cessation, policies and systems that prevent disease, etc.). The health education team at DHD#10 provides direct programming for substance use prevention, chronic disease prevention, and behavioral health as well as support for community coalitions and community health needs assessment initiatives.

DHD#10 would like to recognize our very own extremely talented team of Health Educators, Health Planners, and Health Resource Advocates.

Thank you, for everything you do in your communities, in the name of public health!
